DMCA report In this honest and surprising novel, James Baldwin gave America a moving love story in front of injustice. Born through the eyes of Tish, a 19-year-old, in love with Fonny, a young sculptor who is the father of his child, the story of Baldwin mixes sweet and sad. Tish and Fonny are engaged in marriage, but Fonny is falsely accused of a terrible crime and imprisoned. Their families have cleared their name, and facing an uncertain future, young lovers experience a kaleidoscope of emotions-affection, despair and hope. In a love story that evokes the blues, where passion and sadness are inevitably intertwined, Baldwin created two characters so alive and deeply realized that they are unforgettably engraved in American psyche. I know that I was baptized Clementine, and so it would be sensible if people called me Clem, or even come to think about it, Clementine, since it is my name; but they do not. People call me Tish. I think that makes sense too. I'm tired, and I'm starting to think that maybe everything that happens makes sense. Like, if it doesn't make sense, how could it happen? But this is really a terrible thought. You can just get out of trouble-tooth that doesn't make any sense. I went to see Fonny today. It's not even his name, Alonzo was baptized, and it might make sense if people called him Lonnie. But, no, we always called him Fonny. Alonzo Hunt, this is his name. I've known him my whole life, and I hope I know him all the time. But I call him Alonzo only when I have to break a piece of shit. Today I said, "Alonzo?" And he looked at me, the look he has when I call him by name. Start your path to career success with a strategic and professional focusMaster, and Mba Gradi Program of References. Apply in 5 minutes. He is in prison. Where we were, I was sitting on a bench in front of a table, and he was sitting on a bench in front of a table. And we were facing through a glass wall between us. Nothing can be heard through this glass, and so they both have a small phone. You have to talk about it. I don't know why people always look already when they speak through a phone, but they always do it. You have to remember to look at the person you are talking to. I always remember, because he is in prison and I love him and every time I see him I'm afraid I never see him again. Then I take the phone as soon as I arrive and I keep it and keep looking at it. So when I said, á œá œ "Alonzoá œ"? Á œ looked down and then looked up and smiled and kept the phone and waited. I hope nobody has ever had to look at someone who love through glass. And I didn't say how I intended to say it. I wanted to say it very off-hand, so it would not be too upset, so it would understand that I was saying it without any kind of accusation in my heart. I know him. It is very proud, and he cares a lot, and, when I think about it, I know that it is the biggest reason why he is in prison. He cares about it too, I don't want him to worry about me. In fact, I didn't want to say what I had to say. But I knew I had to say it. He had to know. If you cross the Sahara, and you fall, by and by vultures circle around you, smelling, sensing, your death. They circle lower and lower: they wait. They know. They know exactly when the flesh is ready, when the spirit cannot fight back. The poor are always crossing the Sahara.
